

METHOD FOR GENERATING OUTPUT SOUND DATA IN A PREDETERMINED TIME PERIOD

Abstract

A method for generating output sound data in a predetermined time period includes mixing input sound data in the predetermined time period with input sound data in the time period previous to the predetermined time period, and with output sound data in the time period previous to the predetermined time period in order to generate the output sound data in the predetermined time period.